Attracting Winter Woodpeckers

Woodpeckers enjoy natural foods such as insects, nuts, berries, and sap. Fruiting shrubs, deciduous trees, and snags or stumps may entice them. Choose feeders that support these birds' most comfortable feeding postures such as the Suet Feeder with Tail Prop shown here. Suet provides much needed fat in the colder weather, and the paddle below the suet allows birds to prop their tails like they would on a tree trunk. Heated birdbaths are essential, and a separate feeding area away from more boisterous birds may help.
