

What's NEW?

The Nuttery's Globe Peanut Feeder is a classic design that is also beautifully functional. The integral cage design offers excellent resistance to squirrel damage, and also restricts access for larger birds. Strong and robust, this feeder is going to effectively feed small birds such as nuthatches, chickadees and downy woodpeckers for many years to come ...63.99

The Squirrel Buster Finch is a great addition to the Squirrel Buster family of high-quality feeders. This squirrel-proof nyjer seed feeder has 4 perching seed ports and 4 clinging feed ports allowing many birds to feed at once. Like the other Squirrel Busters, the outer shroud is forced down with the weight of a squirrel. This closes the seed ports preventing access to the seed. The patented Seed Tube Ventilation System prevents the build up of humidity keeping the seed fresh. Don't let the squirrels chew Mom's finch feeders; pick up a Squirrel Buster Finch today ...52.99

Tempt bright orange orioles right to your window with our new Window Mount Oriole Feeder. Three nectar feeding ports with bee guards and perches create an attractive oriole snack bar. Attaches securely to your window with two sturdy suction cups. This feeder lifts entirely off the bracket for easy cleaning and filling. Remove the top of the feeder and the base can be used as a seed feeder for winter birds when the orioles have migrated ...25.99

Rose-breasted Grosbeak

The male rose-breasted grosbeak is striking with a black back and head, white rump and belly, and a deep rosy-red triangular patch on his breast. The female, however, is less conspicuous in shades of brown. She has brown streaking on both her pale breast and darker back along with a bold white eyebrow stripe.

Rose-breasted grosbeaks feed on insects, seeds, fruits and flower buds. They will also visit birdfeeders readily, so their diet can be supplemented with the offering of some of their favourite seeds such as sunflower and safflower seed.

During spring migration, rose-breasted grosbeaks generally return to their Canadian range from the middle of April to late May. They have a broad distribution across southern Canada and can be found from British Columbia east to the Maritime Provinces. Typically, between August and September, they begin their migration south to Central and South America where they overwinter.

Rose-breasted grosbeaks are said to have one of the prettiest calls. It is comparable to that of the American robin but with a more melodic sound.

So the next time you see this beautiful bird, take a little time to enjoy its beauty and to listen for its song. It simply is a treat!

Green Ideas

Felt Toys - These toys are designed for dogs, but we also love them for kids. They're soft and safe (made of 100% renewable wool), and are cute as can be. The turtle is Zoe's favourite (Emily's dog), but there are also sunflowers, balls, carrots, snakes, and more. This is a fair-trade product which provides employment to craftswomen in Nepal.

Water Bottles - Earthlust water bottles are made of food grade stainless steel. These safe, lightweight bottles come in many cool designs, three sizes, and a narrow opening for less spilling.

Simplicity Vegesoy Candles - Pure, Clean, Natural! Simplicity wax is made from an exclusive soybean and all-natural vegetable wax mixture. (most candles are made from a petroleum based product called paraffin, a by-product of fuel refining.) Simplicity candles use all cotton wicks and burn 30% longer than traditional candles. The purchase of soybean wax supports North American farmers and our environment. Available unscented or with pure essential oils such as Lavender and Orange Blossom. Made in Canada.

EcoSeeds - Not your average pack of seeds! Housed in a modern metal tin with fresh graphics, these untreated garden seeds have been specially chosen to offer an unusual and eclectic range of showy blooms or veggies, with a strong emphasis on organic and heirloom varieties. Choose from heirloom ballerina poppies, organic queen cleome, organic zesty mesclun mix, and many more ...4.75 each
