

HOLIDAYS ARE for THE BIRDS!

The New Laurentian Feeder

A sturdy and attractive cedar bird feeder made here in Ontario. Excellent design features include brass screws, screen bottom for good drainage, and perches separated from the seed tray to prevent contamination from bird droppings. Paired with a bag of any of Featherfields' excellent seed blends, this makes a great gift for any bird lover on your list.

Go Buggy

Dehydrated mealworms are a fun idea to attract some insect-eating birds like chickadees, nuthatches, and titmice. Offer these yummys in a dish-style feeder like Aspects' Vista Dome, or mix them in to your regular birdseed for a bonus treat. Makes a unique stocking stuffer too!...$11.99

"4-for-all" Suet Feeder

This super new feeder holds 4 suet cakes and provides a large surface area for many birds at once or for bigger woodpeckers like the red-bellied. The wooden paddle simulates a tree trunk and offers birds a place to prop their tail while they feed.

All Wet?

Still can't dive into the idea of a heated birdbath? This is the year! We have more selection than ever. Water in winter is even more important to birds than a good food supply. Just plug it in and watch the birds flock to your yard. Great gift idea for the person who has (almost) everything!

Miniblossom Hummingbird Feeder

A new ceramic version of the top-selling hummingbird feeders by Par-a-sol. Miniblossom "Folklore" is charmingly handpainted in red, blue, and green leaf patterns. Glazed for easy cleaning. Stake mount or hanging...$27.99

A FEW FUN FACTS ABOUT THE CARDINAL

The Northern Cardinal gets its name from the cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church who wear red robes and hats.

The male is the only all-red bird with a crest, which makes identification foolproof. The female has buffy-rose plumage with reddish wings and tail and is one of the few female birds that actually sings.

The oldest re-captured banded Northern Cardinal was still alive at 15 years and 9 months old.

Cardinals mate for life. They usually remain together through the winter, often joining with a few others to form loose flocks.

Cardinals are usually the first birds to arrive at the birdfeeder in early morning and the last to visit at dusk. They prefer those feeding stations that offer seed on a tray, platform or on the ground. Although they love sunflower seed, they do eat a variety of other foods, such as safflower seed, cut corn and peanuts.

Great NEWS!

Two of our biggest and best bird feeder distributors - Droll Yankees and Aspects - have lowered prices on all of their exceptional products. Now, a smaller investment for a lifetime of birdfeeding pleasure.
